Democratic State Convention.

The following extract from a letter to one of the State Democratic Executive Committee explains itself. "We will take delegates to the Democratic State Convention at Raleigh in June for 3 cents per mile each way, ticket and return to be purchased at starting point. We think this is a better plan than giving return tickets."

Yours respectfully,
R. R. BRIDGERS, Pres.

Back Lots.

We will have to plant our battery and keep firing away at the enemy of the health of the citizens of Raleigh until it surrenders. We speak to-day in behalf of a population of fourteen thousand souls, all liable to disease and death from the foulness of the back lots of the city, and we ask in the name of this number, why it is that they are not required to be kept clean? We have police who are paid good salaries, and willing to perform the duty, why then not execute the ordinance, where so much depends upon it? No greater service can be rendered the citizens of Raleigh to-day than to require all the back lots to be cleansed. We call upon our Board of Aldermen to take immediate action in this matter, and let whatever is done, be done thoroughly. Why not organize a Board of Health for each Ward, or divide the city into so many districts and police each district every week during the hot summer days. There is a fearful indifference upon this subject, which does not speak well for our city authorities. If the health of citizens depends upon this matter, it is the sworn duty of the authorities to preserve their health, and if they do not they should be liable for all the suffering and apothecaries' and doctors' bills resulting therefrom.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF GRAHAM HIGH SCHOOL.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

Ed. News:—Last Wednesday night a number of the pupils declaimed in the Chapel to a small audience. Thursday morning some ten or twelve of the pupils declaimed to an audience considerably increased in size. Thursday night the Chapel was filled. A song of welcome was sung by the students, led by Miss C. Hunter Southgate, who presided at the organ. The following young ladies read compositions: Miss Bessie O. Trollinger, Haw River, N. C.; Miss Lina S. Burnett, Pittsboro, N. C.; Miss Mamie F. Avent, Wake Co, N. C; Miss Fannie E. Hatch, Pittsboro', N. C., Miss Sue M. Whitaker, Battleboro, N. C.; Miss Lorena F. Cross, Merry Oaks, N. C.; Miss Sallie J. Holleman, Morrisville, N. C.; Miss Jennie Albright, Graham, N. C.; Miss Ida F. Scott, Graham, N. C. The exercises of the evening were closed by a debate conducted by the members of the Philologian Society.

Friday, May 26, the Chapel was filled to hear a sermon to the pupils by Rev. J. Henry Smith, of Greensboro, N. C., from the words, "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge"—Hosea iv, 6.

I see it stated in your paper that this able divine will deliver the literary address before the young ladies at Peace Institute at the next Commencement. The young ladies may expect a treat.

At half past two, p. m., Rev. J. B. Bobbitt, of your city, delivered the Literary Address before the Philologian Society. His theme was "Mental and Moral Culture." The Speaker handled his subject in a masterly style, and was listened to with deep interest by the large audience.

At night, the following Seniors delivered original orations:

Self-Reliance—Mr. John Doctor Gunter, Jonesboro, N. C.

Speculation of Act—Mr. James Patterson Albright, Graham, N. C.

The Will of the Multitude—Mr. David Bell, Enfield, N. C.

Thought's Domain—Mr. Albert Coble, Hartshorn, N. C.

Valedictory addresses—Mr. Isaac Henry Long Graham N. C. Mr. W. D. Mills of Va, was marshal. The Seniors had a supper after the exercises closed Friday night. Forty-two boarders and sixty day scholars matriculated during the session of 1875-'76. Some of the pupils will go to Chapel Hill, some to Trinity and other places.

The principal thanked the citizens of Graham for aiding him in keeping good order among the pupils and stated that he had not punished any of the pupils for intoxication or profanity during the session.

Rev. W. L. Long A. M. will be added to the faculty during the next session which opens the last Monday in August 1876 and closes the last Friday in May 1877.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Attorney-General.

YADKIN COUNTY, N. C., May 26, '76.

Mr. Editor:—As the time for selecting men to fill the various offices under our State government draws near, it behooves every true hearted democrat to contribute his mite to insure success to our party. The struggle will evidently be desperate in the extreme. The radicals are fully determined to resort to every means, fair or foul, which the corrupt minds of their leaders can suggest to overthrow Democracy in North Carolina—for the desperation with which they live, like drowning men, catch at straws, convinces us that they consider it a final struggle for life. Under such circumstances, the Democrats should act with considerable deliberation. They should put forward suitable men,—men whose escutcheons are free from all stains of dishonor—men who not only deserve, but have gained the confidence of the people. Undoubtedly our hope of success lies in a wise selection of candidates, and judging from the immense number of communications which appear in your columns, suggesting the names of deserving men for the different offices, the Democrats seem to be interested, and "up and doing." But are not a great many of these suggestions the offspring of secular pride, and, some of them, the promptings of personal relation, and friendship?

Such, Mr. Editor, ought not be the case. Without intending to impeach the worthiness of a great many aspirants, we must enter our protest against such steps. True, a great many deserving and talented men have been mentioned, but desert and talent alone are not the questions to be considered by the Convention. Were we to take such a view, it would be hard to select from so great a number. But the principal question is what deserving and talented man can command the greatest number of votes? Evidently men whose reputation have extended beyond their county and district are better calculated to insure success to our party than young men, however promising and talented they may be, who have not yet attained more than a local reputation. The office of Attorney General, Mr. Editor, is one of no minor importance, and one to which there are very many young aspirants. There are many lawyers in the State sufficiently learned in the profession to reflect honor on the office, but very few who are fully competent to occupy the position to the Democratic party. Among the few is Col. Junius I. Scales, of Guilford, a man eminently qualified for the high position. He is a man of almost State-wide reputation, of popular manners, a fine canvasser and an able lawyer. The Convention would do well to consider the merits of this gentleman.

OLD YADKIN.

Death from Poison.

Goldsboro Messenger.

The startling announcement reaches us from Lenoir county that a family of eight negroes met their death from eating poisoned hog meat. A friend has given us the following particulars, which, however, require further confirmation. As a preventive against the cholera, and security against hog stealing, both of which have for some time very much discouraged the pork raisers of Lenoir county, many of the farmers have resorted to feeding strychnine to their hogs. Among those who adopted this course, we learn, is Mr. Louis Kilpatrick who resides near the Greene county line. Last Thursday morning Mr. Kilpatrick missed a fine shoat, and latter in the day came the report that a negro and his family, in the neighborhood, eight in number, had died from eating poisoned pork. We were unable to learn the names of the victims, and in the absence of more authenticated particulars merely gives the news as it has come to us. If true it may prove a wholesome lesson to others inclined to hog stealing. Senator Morton, who is now in North Carolina, will probably move for a committee to investigate this "Ku Klux Outrage" when he gets back to Washington.

The young man who by mistake swallowed a whole box of Dr. Bull's Vegetable Pills is out again. He says he feels rather "pale" but otherwise is all right. He will, however, follow the directions next time.

Regulate the Bodily Functions.

This advice should be especially heeded by those who suffer from an irregular habit of body or disorders of the bladder or kidneys. Inactivity of the bowels, or of the urinary organs, is speedily rectified by that wholesome aperient and stering invigorative diuretic Hostetter's Stomach Bitters; and, as all affections of the organs of discharge have a strong tendency to become chronic, and that very rapidly, the use of the Bitters should not be delayed for a moment longer than is necessary. The action of this inestimable corrective upon the bowels differs widely from that of a drastic purgative, since it is never violent or abrupt, but always gentle and natural, and its effects upon the bladder and kidneys are strengthening as well as mildly stimulative. The healthful impetus which it gives to digestion also renders it a most desirable general tonic.

Come one, come all
And give us a call,
At No. 3 Fayetteville street,
Where you may find
Furniture of all kinds
At prices hard to beat.
We are still offering goods

THE DAILY NEWS is the largest daily newspaper in the State—the only paper in Raleigh that receives the Telegraphic Reports, and the leading advertising medium in North Carolina.

THE WEEKLY NEWS is the cheapest paper published in North Carolina. It contains 40 columns of plain printed news from every section of the country, and is edited with special reference to the farmer and industrial classes of the country.

CIRCULATION.

THE DAILY NEWS has the largest daily circulation in the State, and over double the circulation of any other daily in Raleigh.

The combined circulation of the Daily and Weekly NEWS is nearly 5,000, and reaches more readers than any other paper in North Carolina.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot, under any circumstances, return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

YESTERDAY was Federal decoration day in this city. A full description of the observances appears in our local columns.

TO-MORROW'S issue will contain a full account of the eloquent speech recently delivered in the House of Representatives by Hon. J. J. Davis.

So Senator Morton did not come to Wilmington, and His Excellency Governor Brogden must return to Raleigh without that Bloody Shirt.

It may not be generally known that there is a morning prayer for children corresponding to the evening petition, so familiar to us all, "Now I lay me down to sleep." There is such a morning prayer, and this is it:

Now I wake and see the light,
'Tis God has kept me all the night;
To him I lift my voice and pray
That he will keep me all the day.

We publish this on the authority of one of our Northern exchanges.

THE opening of the Narrow-Gauge Railroad between Dallas and Yorkville, on the Chester & Lenoir Railroad line, is a work of great importance to certain sections of Western North Carolina and upper South Carolina. It is the first narrow-gauge experiment in the Southern States, if we mistake not—certainly in the Carolinas and Virginia, and its operations will be observed with deep interest by the progressive men of our State.

RELIGIOUS RE-UNION.

Nothing in the religious world just now excites deeper interest than the immediate prospect of a re-union of the Presbyterian Church North and South. This subject engrossed a large share of the attention of the General Assembly South which met in Savannah, Ga., on the 18th inst., and of the General Assembly North, which is still in session in New York City.

The Presbyterian is the only religious denomination which remains divided on account of differences growing out of the civil war. The Methodist Church North and the Methodist Church South have re-established fraternal relations. The fraternal relations of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the two sections were never seriously disturbed. But all past attempts to establish fraternal relations between what is called the General Assembly South and what is called the General Assembly North have failed; and, to quote from a speech of Dr. Talmage, "these two Presbyterian bodies are the only organized bodies in the United States that keep up our terrible war."

It is pleasant then to behold the near prospect of a re-union of these two great churches. The Northern church holds out the olive branch. It will be a grand christian spectacle to see the Southern church forgetting its wrongs, and rising to accept the emblem of Peace. At this juncture in the affairs of the country, this re-union would be particularly fortunate. It would have a good effect upon the whole nation; as it would set a noble example, for us all to follow, in the matter of reconcilation with the North. The country needs peace. We are tired of strife. We can have no true peace, until both the North and South are willing to forget the past, and "let by-gones be by gones."

THE DANGER.

The Conservative party of North Carolina will soon join battle again with the Republican hosts. The contest will be hot and close. The probable result is among the things that the future alone can reveal. But, for the present, let us think not of the fruits of victory, but of the way to win the crown of success which lies so temptingly before us.

Are we ready for the conflict?

A wise man never undervalues the power of his adversary, nor presumes upon his supposed weakness. And the first thing a good general does, at the beginning of a campaign or upon the eve of battle, is to ascertain the strength of the enemy, and feel his position. When he has gained this information he knows better how to act.

In the approaching political struggle in this State it is important for us to realize the strength of the Republicans. Some are disposed to underrate their power, and to flatter themselves with the pleasing prospect of an easy victory over them. There is no surer way of insuring a Republican triumph in November than for Democrats to delude themselves in this manner. Over-confidence has been the mother of as many defeats on battle-fields and in political struggles as lack of confidence or despair.

The Republican party of North Carolina is a powerful organization. It has eighty thousand negroes for its main body, its rank and file; and for officers it has eighteen or twenty thousand postmasters, postmasters' clerks, mail-agents, Revenue officials and clerks to Revenue officials, Federal Court officers, and other whites. In numbers, they are about an even match for the Democratic party.

This tremendous organization is easily handled by its leaders; nearly every voter obeys orders; they act harmoniously; they rarely have a serious split in their ranks; what personal differences they may have are usually healed before the time for voting comes around.

As most of their leaders are office-holders, dependent on the government for their living, they are all vitally interested in the triumph of their party; are willing to spend money freely for it—and are not very particular whose money they spend in this way, either.

So, they have all the advantages that almost perfect organization, abundance of money, and harmonious, energetic, determined action can give—advantages that it would be folly in us to either overlook or despise, especially as the party is about the equal of ours in numbers.

In addition to these things, our political adversaries never fail to vote. Their interests, their prejudices, their hatreds, their fears—besides their devotion to the principles of Republicanism, and their perfect obedience to their leaders—move them too powerfully to suffer one to stay at home when voting is going on.

"Forewarned, forearmed." Let us realize fully the strength of the adversary with whom we are to cope, and not shut our eyes to plain facts. So shall we take the first great step towards winning the victory which lies within our grasp, if we will but put forth our whole strength.

CHAPEL HILL COMMENCEMENT

To-day is an important day for the University of North Carolina. It marks the opening of a new era. It is her first Commencement Day under the new regime, and the public will gather in her halls to see what progress has so far been made, and behold the fruits of the first collegiate year since the revival.

We will present our readers with full accounts of the proceedings from day to day, and each may judge for himself what measure of success has crowned the efforts of those who have labored so strenuously and faithfully to resuscitate the Institution and place it again on the highway to prosperity.

We feel sure that the accounts will indicate to us that the hopes of all but the too sanguine have been realized in a manner that will encourage the friends of the University to renewed efforts in its behalf, in the future.

The restoration of this College must be of deep interest to every North Carolinian who feels a proper State pride, or desires to see the cause of education advanced among us, and we wish that we could say that every such son of the Old North State was doing something towards helping on the good work. Then we might indulge in the hope that the day is not far distant when Chapel Hill will shed abroad over the land as bright a light as she did in the olden time.

Chapel Hill is the only University south of Virginia worthy to be mentioned, though there are many excellent colleges and seminaries of great usefulness, power and influence. The field for our University, then, is a most ample one. To place it in a commanding position before the country we need but to put it on a firm, liberal basis; endow professorships; re-stock it with everything needful for educational purposes; keep its Chairs filled with the best talent obtainable; elevate it to the highest standard of excellence in every department; make its merits known to our sister Southern States, and keep it abreast of the age in which we live.

THE Philadelphia Times (Ind) is disposed to do the South justice. That paper published the slanderous report of the Rev. S. Taylor Martin's oration in Charlotte on the 10th inst. It now publishes a communication from Charlotte, contradicting the published report; and, in directing attention to the refutation of the slander, says: "We waited more than a week for some denial of the report, and, seeing none, treated it as true, and commented on it accordingly. The letters, which we print this morning, are conclusive evidence that the gentleman most concerned and the people for whom he spoke have been grossly slandered. The Times makes haste to express regret for its unintentional injustice, and asks its contemporaries to notice this correction."

If all the Northern journals would show a similar sense of justice the misrepresentation, falsehoods, and gross slanders made about the South by malignant Radical partisans would have little or no effect, however prone human nature is to listen to the voice of the deceiver, or believe the lie that panders to prejudice.

THE Baltimore Gazette of recent date says:

"The temper of the voters of the South to-day differs wholly from that of twenty years ago. In the dozen years that have passed since the close of the war almost the whole generation has changed. Those who were too old to learn the new ideas have passed away, and the little boys of the war are the voters of to-day. Mr. Hill is a representative of this new South when he says 'it has abandoned slavery, secession, and all its old ideas, and desires union cordial reconciliation with the North and wishes the advancement and happiness of the negro.' This testimony from one who is considered a Southern extremist outweighs a dozen bogus Southern outrages."

Truer words than these were never spoken. We think we do not err in stating that the young voters of North Carolina at least do not cling to the effete ideas of the past; they would not own slaves if they could, Southern Independence is not in their dreams; they earnestly desire to witness the cordial reconciliation of the two great sections, and enjoy the blessings of a genuine peace.

NOT the most insignificant articles on exhibition at the Centennial, are the gray stone beer mugs in the German department. They are quaintly shaped and curiously figured in relief; but the main point of attraction, is the homely-rhymed wisdom inscribed upon them.

Here is the motto on a mug big enough to hold a day's supply of drink for a small family:

Ein boses Weib und Sauer Bier,
Behut der Himmel dich dafur.

Which might be thus freely translated:

From sour beer and a scolding wife
May heaven protect thee all thy life.

Another couplet runs:

Wer nicht liebt und trinkt und singt,
Es nie zu wahren freude bringt.

In English it would read somewhat in this way, reversing the lines:

To none will fate true pleasure bring
Who does not love, and drink, and sing.

HERE is one of the latest rhymes from the pen of Mr. Childs, of the Philadelphia Ledger, famous as an obituary poet. It is on the death of a young woman:

"She sleeps in Jesus. Oh, how sweet
To be for such a slumber meet,
With holy confidence to sing
That death has lost its painful stiug.
Gone to meet her father.

POLITICAL NOTES.

There were seven Republican Conventions last week; and not one for Conkling.

Mr. Blain has given a complete answer about that package. He swears the alleged bonds were maps.

Gen. Schenck disappears "unwept unhonored and unsung." The only regret of even the Republican papers seems to be that he was so leniently dealt with.

Religious bigotry is still one of the leading cards of the Republicans. The Republican candidate for Attorney General in Indiana, in a speech a few evenings ago, referred to the Israelites as "God abandoned Jews."—Wilmington Journal.

The anti Tilden sentiment is confined mainly, in New York, to the Canal Ring and Tilden's rivals; and in the west to the Western inflationists. Chief Justice Church and Justice Allen, ex-Lieut-Gov. Beach, ex-Gov. Hoffman, ex-Speaker Littlejohn are leaders against Tilden in New York.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

The Roanoke News thinks it would be very unwise to nominate Hon. Z. B. Vance for Governor.

The Shelby Banner favors General D. H. Hill for Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Hon. Z. B. Vance for Governor.

The Conservative Convention of Montgomery county declared for Vance for Governor; Ashe for Congress; and C. W. Wooley, Esq., for State Auditor.

The Democratic Convention of Rutherford instructed their delegates to the State Convention to go untrammelled "with the understanding that Gov. Vance is the choice of the Democrats of the county for Governor."

Col. Walter L. Steele in a letter, in the Pee Dee Courier, says that the only difference between himself and Hon. Thos. S. Ashe "is, that we both desire the same position—each having an equal right to desire it, and neither feeling the slightest jealousy on the subject."

The Convention of the Democratic Conservative party in the Third Congressional District will meet in ye ancient town of Fayetteville on Wednesday next, the 1st inst. A candidate for Congress and District delegates to the National Convention will be chosen; likewise a Presidential elector.

One Lesson of the Centennial.

One of the best lessons of the Centennial is the honor it confers upon all kinds of labor. No one can witness the magnificent display that the industry, skill and art of so many nations have contributed to produce, without feeling an increased reverence for the hard toil of head and hand from which it has sprung. Labor is generally admitted to be a necessity, of course, but not a thing of beauty and joy. However indefatigable the toiler may be, he rarely sees the crowning symmetry and elegance of his work when perfected. The division of labor is such that only a part of every whole falls to his share, and its finished completeness is too far removed for him to rejoice in it. But here is indeed a gathering together of results at once rich and inestimable, wherein the honest work of every true laborer shines forth with a radiance and beauty that should forever save it from any imputation of dullness and insipidity.

When Macaulay published the earlier volumes of his history he reaped suddenly, and, to his great astonishment rewards, both of wealth and fame that placed him on a pinnacle of which he had never dreamed. Twenty-six thousand five hundred copies of one volume were sold in ten weeks. In his diary he says, "They (the publishers) will pay twenty thousand pounds into Williams' bank next week. What a sum to be gained by one edition of a book! I may say gained in one day. But that was harvest day. The work has been near seven years in hand." Here we see the sudden blossoming forth into view of years of hard and lonely labor; doubtless often clouded with discouragement and doubt, and burdened with many an anxious fear. Something of this may now be seen in our great Exhibition. It is the harvest time which yields at length the rich and luxuriant fruits that have been silently and steadily growing and ripening for the past hundred years. Suddenly, and to our astonishment, the labor of humanity springs into full, obvious and well-defined existence, glowing with brilliance and beauty, and claiming an appreciation and honor at our hands that we are all now hastening to bestow. The many years of patient, pleddging and unnoticed toil, the busy thoughts that have been planning in secret for the increased happiness of mankind, the tireless researches which have been penetrating the earth, and weighing the atmosphere, and measuring the stars, the courage and firmness which have triumphed over untold difficulties, the sacrifices which no eye has seen, and the victories over weariness and despair that no tongue has recounted, are all embodied in the valuable results around us. The pain and fatigue, the loneliness and discouragement, the anxiety and fear that attended their birth, have passed away and are forgotten, while the joy of their successful completion remains a permanent blessing to the world.

Let us all, then, as we visit the Centennial and feast our eyes on its rich products and varied beauties, learn to accord a deeper reverence and a higher honor to labor than we have ever done before. Let us not be satisfied with admiring and wondering at the results, but let our thoughts flow back in respectful homage to the assiduous industry and painstaking exertions which are there represented. More than all, let us turn again to our every-day life with a more faithful loyalty to labor, a renewed vigor to engage in it and a more tender consideration and regard for those who are battling with discouragements and difficulties in its service.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A New Temperance Society.

[Newbern Times.]

After the Episcopal Convention proper, which held its annual session at Tarborough last week had adjourned, a meeting of the delegates, clerical and lay, was held for the purpose of forming a temperance society. This idea was, we have every reason to believe, the conception of our worthy townsman, Rev. E. M. Forbes, Rector of Christ Church, and its recommendation met with a very general approval.

A constitution was adopted, and Bishop Atkinson and Assistant Bishop Lyman were made Presidents. There has hitherto been an objection to the foundation of a society of this character in connection with the church for the alleged reason that the church was of itself sufficient to control this matter. This objection was and is overcome by the principle upon which this movement has been organized, viz: that it is not outside the church, not an auxilary to, but is within. Each parish is to have a branch society, of which the parish minister is to be ex officio President, the membership being composed exclusively of Episcopalians; there will be three classes of pledges or vows, which embrace 1st, That no member will give, or cause to be given to persons addicted to strong drink, anything to inflame or pander to that appetite.

2nd, That they will not use intoxicating liquors as beverage, and 3rd a total abstinence pledge.

Persons connecting themselves with the Association, are given a card of membership, the surrender of which ends their connection, the pledges are assumed and laid aside at the plessure of the individual. If while a member, a person should violate his vow, the president, his pastor, is informed of the fact, and without making the derilection known even to the society, he or she is kindly talked to by the minister, and the subject not made one of society investigation and parade.

A pleasing feature will be the meeting, to be purely social without form or ceremony, and held weekly or semi-weekly at the residence of some member, where the influence of pure association, or stated social enjoyment will no doubt accomplish much in the prevention of young men frequenting bar-rooms.

A similar temperance organization exists in the Church of England and has been highly successful and productive of much good, and we trust it will soon have a similar reputation in North Carolina.—Newbern Times.

THE DAVENPORT INVESTIGATION.

BLISS RESPONSIBLE FOR

Harney's Appearance in Washington.

BLISS ON THE STAND.

NEW YORK, May 30.—District Attorney Bliss on stand in the Davenport investigation stated that he supposed he was mainly responsible for Harney's appearance in Washington as he witness, had known facts in possession of Harney for two months. He had communicated them to Mr. Bass, a member of the committee. Harney was appraiser Darling's right hand man. When Mr. Darling's connection with the 3rd Avenue Saving Bank was under investigation, an effort was made to stop the investigation by a threat, that if Harney's connection with the affairs of the bank was exposed he would make some damaging revelations about Mr. Kerr. Mr. Bliss said that Mr. Bass told him he would not present any charges against Mr. Kerr unless they seemed to be well founded, and that he (Bliss) had carefully questioned Harney in regard to his relations with Mr. Kerr. He was satisfied that Harney was truthful and honest.
